

EMPLOYMENT SKILLS IN UNIFORMED ORGANISATIONS

Learning Outcome 1

Know the main roles of different uniformed organisations.

U2 Task 1

AC 1.1 Outline the main purpose of contrasting uniformed organisations.

A purpose is the main reason for which an organisation exists. You need to outline the purpose of the Royal Navy and the Fire and Rescue Service.

(If you choose to use the detail contained in the Learning Guide or from another published source, don't forget to use quotation marks and note where the information has come from.)

The uniformed organisations have specific responsibilities. Following on from Task 1 you should now look at the Royal Navy and Fire and Rescue Service in further detail. You should identify and then describe three responsibilities for each service. You must also say if the organisation is responsible to the local or national government.

Learning Outcome 3

You have been asked to prepare the draft text that could be used for a small leaflet that has a brief description that explains a job which is done in one of the military uniformed organisations and one that is done in a non-military uniformed organisation. You have chosen to write about an Army soldier and a paramedic in the Ambulance Service.

Each description should focus on the actual job and not on the role, training or promotion prospects. Your description should consist of two or three sentences.

Learning Outcome 4

Know the conditions of service for different uniformed organisation jobs.

U2 Task 4

Including pension, describe what you consider to be the five most important conditions of service for two jobs - an RAF airman/airwoman and a Police officer.
